To the graduating class of 2024,

Together, we celebrate your achievements. It was hard, but you did it! Graduating is no small feat, so remember to appreciate this moment, along with the many moments that led you here. Reflect upon how you have changed and how you will continue to grow.

From your studies within Psychology, you have gained a better understanding of how and why we exhibit certain forms of behavior. You learned more about how we perceive objects and events, how we think and solve problems, how we produce and understand language and how adversity impacts our mental and physical well-being. You learned about how our experiences impact our DNA, our physiology and our emotions.

Throughout your time at UW-Madison, you learned to adapt to new challenges and improve yourselves and others. As you leave UW, remember the social connections you have created and know that these connections will remain even as you move on to your next step. Continue to seek out new experiences, continue to learn and continue to help others.

Celebrate yourself and those who supported your journey here today. Thank your friends and family, your course instructors and teaching assistants, your academic advisors and mentors, your classmates and your labmates. They and you are what make the Psychology Department and UW-Madison enriching and exciting.

Be sure to stay in touch and share your post-graduation accomplishments with us!

Once a Badger, always a Badger.

Congratulations!

Kristin Shutts, Ph.D.
Professor of Psychology
Associate Chair for Undergraduate Studies

ABOUT THE DEPARTMENT

Founded in 1888, the Department of Psychology is proud to house one of the largest undergraduate majors in the College of Letters & Science at UW-Madison. Over the years, the department has focused on several areas in the field of Psychological Science, including biological, clinical, cognition & cognitive neuroscience, perception, developmental, and social & personality. Scientific Psychology is positioned well to influence critical issues through its strong interdisciplinary connections with the natural sciences, social sciences, humanities, and medical sciences. Throughout their undergraduate education, students develop the ability to think critically and quantitatively, enhance communication skills, and apply the science of psychology to the well-being of oneself and others while exploring these interdisciplinary connections. This education allows our alumni to take on the challenges of, and fully participate in, an increasingly complex, multicultural world.

DEPARTMENT OF PSYCHOLOGY STUDENT ORGANIZATIONS

PSI CHI

The UW-Madison chapter of Psi Chi, the International Honor Society in Psychology, displays the values of our department and the mission of the Psi Chi organization - encouraging, stimulating, and maintaining excellence in the scholarship of individual members in all fields, particularly Psychology. We hosted a lecture series, Psych Talks, featuring UW professors and researchers such as Dr. Rhonda Reinholz and Dr. Demis Glasford, who spoke about their work in various fields surrounding Psychology. We invited Psychology professionals, including a residential treatment case manager and an industrial organizational engineer, to discuss how Psychology applies to their fields. We volunteered time to local organizations such as the National Alliance for Mental Illness (NAMI) and the River Food Pantry. We provided career development opportunities through a resume workshop and a "Careers Working with Children" panel. We also created the 2024 newsletter to showcase excellent writing, dedication, and the hard work of our talented members. Beyond these accomplishments, we are most proud to welcome our newly inducted Psi Chi members, who we hope will view their membership as a valuable part of their undergraduate education and experience.

Graduating Executive Board Members: Lauren Hermann, Stephanie Gomez, El Muratoglu, Irene Chao, Leah McKirgan, Zoe Lash, Aarushi Sureka and Claire Papandrea

PSYCH CLUB

The Psychology Club offers its members opportunities to get involved in the Psychology department, build relationships with peers and professionals, and make a difference in the greater Madison community. To get involved in the department, we provide our members with resources and information regarding research labs, departmental courses, major requirements and career opportunities after graduation. To build relationships, we connect our members with peers, faculty, staff and alumni through hosting professor presentations, movie and game sessions, panel discussions and workshops, and participation in Day of the Badger. To help make a difference in the community, we held an open house with UW-Madison's Disability Cultural Center and collaborated with the National Alliance for Mental Illness (NAMI) to help spread awareness around the city and on campus.

Graduating Executive Board Members: Conner Kopidlansky, Alena Louie, Taylor Steinbach and Samantha Gitlin
